PROFILE

Tony is an expert in Australia's industrial heritage and has over 30 years' experience as a professional heritage consultant in various industries including natural resources, transport, infrastructure, water and wastewater, defence, and construction, across the private and government sector. He is specialised in preparing heritage impact assessments and conservation management plans for all types of industrial sites of significance, undertaking projects both individually and as a team member in all states of Australia, the external territories (Christmas Island and Cocos Islands), and internationally (Brunei).

Tony is experienced in providing strategic and expert advice on heritage strategy and policy, industrial heritage expert evidence, Aboriginal heritage significance, materials conservation, infrastructure heritage strategy, movable heritage management, and conservation planning. He has been a member of the National Trust's Industrial Heritage Committee for many years and has served as its Industrial Heritage Specialist and continues to represent the National Trust on the Roads and Maritime Services Heritage Committee and the Sydney Water Heritage Committee.
